

NOW is WON

Trials are over, tribulations gone
Life is looking at a new dawn
The world is turning bright and free
We are happy, you and me

Now is won, my favorite song
My heart is fond of lyrics long
Enemies before have fled the wars
Becoming friends, where friendship starts

My heart overflows with joy and love
No pain, all gain is what I have Poetry is the best place to be
In saying what I feel and feeling what I mean

No more blame and fears and shame
Life has turned a dangerous game
Into something I've never seen
A place somewhere I've never been

Now is won, I seek and share
The passion is forever there
You and me, eternal friends
Now is won, until no ends

My heart is feeling light and strong
Love abounds when nothing's wrong
Saying is easy and feeling is fast
Now is won as long as it can last

Every one knows what you and I think
What I love about you as your eyes blink
Before we're not, but now in love
The Heavens have come from up above

My heart feels all love so true
As easy as it gets, my love for you
I was blind, but now I see
That we are truly meant to be

*This poem is about the triumph of mankind over sin, that has given the world a new beginning, which is now expressed solely as love for you and me and every person can now feel and say what they mean without fear, guilt, and shame in the name of love.